

Talk It Through

A private space to prepare for the conversation you're dreading.

You don't need a perfect script. You need enough clarity to walk in steady. Use this to get there, then let the conversation actually be a conversation.

1 What's the conversation?

What do you need to talk about, and what would you like to come out of the conversation?

2 Name the worry

What are you worried might happen?

Which of those concerns are facts, and which are predictions or assumptions?

3 What you want them to understand

What do you want the other person to understand by the end of the conversation?

4 Picture it going well

If the conversation went as well as reasonably possible, what would you see, hear, or feel afterward?

5 What's in your control

What can you control in the conversation, even if you can't control their reaction?

6 Find your words

What would you say if you felt calm, confident, and respectful?

7 Get ready

What is one thing you can do before the conversation to feel more prepared?
