

Start It Now

A private space to work through what's making it hard to start.

You don't need to want to do it. You just need one small step. Answer what you can, skip what doesn't fit yet.

1 Name it

What exactly are you avoiding, and what makes it difficult to start?

2 The prediction

What are you predicting will happen if you do it?

3 Check the prediction

How accurate is that prediction based on what has happened before?

4 What's worked before

When have you managed to start something you were avoiding? What helped that time?

5 Shrink the first step

How could you make the first step so small that starting feels easier?

6 The next five minutes

What could you do right now that would take less than five minutes?
